LIFE IS BETTER WHEN WE MAKE SPACE FOR ADVENTURE.

But it's not always easy; I get it. I'm a regular guy, not an action hero. I do it too – get stuck on autopilot. But I'm way more proud of every single day I've spent outside – escaping civilization, sucking in life – than I am of the times I slept in and squandered time on the couch. You don't get those wasted days back.

Every time I load up the car and hit the road, it's a victory. I reckon the type of adventure is less important than getting out in the first place. A quick morning surf is as valuable as a big day driving in the outback. I've never regretted the times I've come back covered in dirt and sweat. Not once. Days on the couch should be a welcome anomaly, not a way of life.

As someone smart once figured out, work expands to fill the time you give it. So you have to make space for adventure.
